woman running through Thirty-eighth street, a fine-looking young man staggering towards the gutter and a smaller and less handsome man running for the side door of

Thomas Mulligan, about thirty-two years old, powerfully built, and with a bronzed face that was made still more handsome by a long black mustache, was the man who had been shot, and the man who was running was Michael Eagan, a young plumber, who bad just shot Mulligan for his intimacy with his calling.

Three months ago the Eagan family was thrown out of a home by a furniture dealer named Scanlan, who broke up the household by seizing the furniture, on which he held a the husband stopped with his mother, at 818 First avenue.

They were to commence housekeeping very soon, and in the meantime Annie went to work in Sixty-forth street. As she returned from work at night she would be approached by Melligan, who threatened that he would kill her husband and ruin her reputation. She informed her husband, and he went to the engineer and threatened to have him arrested if he didn't desist from annoying Mrs. Eagan.

Last night Mrs. Eagan was returning from work, when, as usual, she was approached by Mulligan. She told him to go away, and tried to run away herself, but was held by the man.

to run away herself, but was held by the man.

Her husband, who happened to be near, rushed up and lively words ensued. Mrs. Eagan started to run for help, when she saw the engineer strike her husband, Eagan, seeing that he stood no chance in a contest with his opponent, drew a pistol and Mulligan seeing the weapon in his bands, turned and ran for a car; but he was too late, for the enraged husband pulled the trigger and sent a ball whirling into the back of the man who had trifled with his wife's affections.

Eagan escaped by going through a side door of a saloon and out the front, and the injured man was taken to Bellevus Hospital. The woman went to her sister's home and remained there during the evening.

Capt. Hyan, in whose precinct the affair occurred, sent Detectives McCarthy and Mullarkey and Special Officers Benning and Hennelly out to look for Eagan, but he could not be found. His pistol was found in the imber-yard, 676 First avenue.

Shortly before 9 o'clock this morning Capt. Ryan was greeted with a cheery "Good morning" by young Eagan. The Captain knew the youth, as the latter had worked for him some months ago.

"I came to give myself up," continued morning" by young Eagan. The Captain knew the youth, as the latter had worked for him some months ago.

"I came to give myself up," continued Eagan, "as I have nothing to run away for, and then it would only have been a short time until I was caught anyways."

The prisoner was taken to his home, and together with his wife he visited Bellevue Hospital. Mulligan lay on a cot, and seemed to be resting quietly but was very weak.

Eagan was placed among several attendants and was promptly identified by the wounded man. He acknowledged that his assailant had forbidden him from visiting his wife and that he had defied the commands, but he added: "He had no right to shoot me last night, for I was getting on the car and was not bothering him at all." He said that he had been walking with Mrs. Eagan a few minutes earlier, but thought it no harm.

Honse Surgeon Riely tried to remove the bullet but was unsuccessful.

Eagan was afterwards taken to the York-ville Court and commuted to a swait the result of Mulligan's injuries.

Boodle Given as a Reason for the Carried Off This Morning by Falling Off.

A Systematic Use of Money on Just Re-Elected President of the and Before Election.

Votes Gathered in Months Ahead.

Kings County did it. There cannot be the slightest doubt of this at the present time, and the responsibility for the defeat of President Cleveland in this State can be placed where it belongs.

The Democratic managers had every reason to believe that a Democratic stronghold, such as Kings County has been in the past, could not do any less than give an increased pluraity for the candidate of the party, especially when the enormous in rease in the registration of the county indicated what the growth in the population had been during the past our years.

Why it should have failed to do this is the question which is now being asked upon all sides, and although the views of representasides, and although the views of representative men in both parties have been canvassed the trouble with the various explanations which they give is that they do not by any means fully explain the cause of defeat.

The cry of fraud has been raised, the trading of the Presidential candidates to help the local ticket in various quarters, and the treachery of local Democratic leaders to their party have been all suggested to account for the unexpected result.

But whils they may have contributed to bring it about, it is claimed that none of these causes, or all of them together, could have been sufficient to reduce the plurality given to Clevefand in 1884, to the figures in the present contest.

The returns speak for themselves, and they show that the revolt of John Y. McKane and his followers in the Gravesend district, to which the reduced pluraity in the county has been generally attributed, made a differ-ence of less than a thousand votes in the gen-oral result.

ence of less than a thousand votes in the general result.

Outside of the district in which he was the leader his defection had little or no effect whatever.

It is also generally conceded that the contest between the McLaughlin and the Kane forces over the county ticket could not have resulted through trading or other means in depriving Cleveland of the 8,000 or 10,000 additional votes which he should have polled last Tuesday.

The only way in which this was accomplished, it is claimed, was by the free use of boodle on the part of the Republican managers.

Careful investigations have been made dur-

Careful investigations have been made during the past two days, and allegations are now made that the Republicans bought up Brooklyn voters by the wholesale long before election day, and that they were active in the distribution of boodle up to the very hour when the polls closed.

The confidence of the Democrats in regard to the result in Kings had given the Republican managers in this city their cue, and they went about their work with the utmost secrecy.

They recognized the fact that it was the one unprotected plank in the Democratic bulwark in this State, and laid their plans accordingly.

Nothing was left undone, and it is alleged

Nothing was left undone, and it is alleged that the money in the hands of secret agents was unlimited. It is sa'd that several weeks before election over two thousand votes had already been purchased, and that a large number of these were among the naturalized Italians in the Fourteenth Ward.

On Election Day, at any rate, the Italian voters of that district were marshalled in squads of twenty-five to fifty at the polling places, and their votes went for the Republican candidates. This raid on the polls was so unexpected that the Democrats were entirely unprepared for it, and no one knew what it meant until after the vote had been counted and the result announced.

The statements made by Chairman Willis, what it meant until after the vote had been counted and the result announced.

The statements made by Chairman Willis, of the Republican Campaign Committee in Kings County, are significant.

"The majority for Cleveland four years ago in Kings County," he says, "was 16,000. In order to win this year we knew it was necessary to reduce this majority materially, and our plans were laid accordingly. By hard, continuous and harmonious work a reduction of 25 per cent, has been accomplished. The majority had been calculated to almost a certainty."

New the vacancy which will then occur will be filled is a puzzing question.

There is no provision in the act of 1884 which created the office of President of the Hoard providing for filling a vacancy either by special elecviding for filling a vacancy either by special election or appointment.

The act, however, declares him to be "an additional alderman" and the Consolidation Act gives the Board power to fill vacancies caused by the death or removal of its members.

As the President is declared by the law to be "an Alderman" and a member of the Board, it is thought that the new Board of Alderman has the power to fill the vacancy until the next election, when provision can be made for the election of a

At National Republican Headquarters a claim is made of the electoral vote of every Northern State, with the exception of New Jersey and Connecticut.

Gen. Harrison wired Col. Dudley last evening that he had carried Indiana by 5,000 plurality, and the advices which have been received from California lead the Republicans to claim for Harrison that State by about 4,000 plurality.

DEMOCRATIC NEW JERSEY. The Republicans Will Have Neither Branch

of the Legislature. For the first time in ten years there is a Demo cratic Senate in New Jersey. Mullon's election in Passaic County gives the weighty majority of one.

Passaic County gives the weighty majority of one. The majority in the Assembly is loar.

With both houses in their hands the Democrats tak of doing all sorts of big things. The certainties are the election of a Democratic successor to United States Senator John K. McPherson and the repell of the High License law; the probabilities, a repeal of the police tecure of office set, a transfer of the Jersey City Roard of Finance appointments from the Board of Aldermen to the Mayor; the creation of superintendents for the Police and Fire Departments, and the transfer of the election of Jersey City's Comptroller from the Board of Pinance to the people.

Fire Departments, and the transfer of the Board of Pinance to the people.

The bad defeat of ex-Speaker and Comptroller Dickinson does not satisfy the Democrats, who are still after his scaip and will deprive him of the Comptrollership if they can.

Secretary of War; Goff, Secretary of the Navy;
Blaine, Secretary of State, if he desires that position; Michener, Gen. Harrison's pariner, Attorney-General; Miler, of New York, Secretary of the Interior, and Mahone, Postmaster-General.

Connecticut in the Cleveland Line. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD ] HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 8. — Aithough Cleveland carries the State by a small plurality, probably something like 400, the Republicans will elect their Governor, Bulkeley. This is because there being no choice by the people, the election will go to the Legislature, where the Republicans have a majority of 49 vote. Two Democratic and two Republican Congressmen are elected.

Republicans Carry California. SAN FRANCISCO, NOV. S, -Heturus from all but sixteen precincts in this city show that Morrow (Rep.) has beaten Ferral for Congress in Fourth District. Pond (Dem.) is elected Mayor. The Democratic majority in the city will not exceed 3,000, and the Republican majority in the State will be about 10,000.

Democrate Give Up Illinois. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD,] CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The Tribune says: "The returns from all the counties in Illinois in the vote for President and Governor show that Gen. Comment of the English Press. INY CARLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.T LORDON, NOV. & .-- The London journals have re overed from their surprise over the defeat of Cieveland.

The Daily Telegraph deciares that the first vote decided the election.

The Standard says it is a matter of regretto Englishmen to see a country desiring to be well and honesity governed, handed over to a chique of which Mr. Blaine is the head.

Other papers think the result is still uncertain, and are buoyed up by hope in later returns. COST HIM MORE THAN $100,000.

Col. Coogan Says that He Has Had His Fill of Politics.

Col. James J. Coogan was very thoughtful today when an EVENING WORLD reporter saw him at his splendidly furnished residence, 41 West Fiftysecond street. He signed heavily when the subject of his can va-a for the Mayoralty was mentioned.
"Yes," he said. "It is true that I spent more than $100,000 in the canvass. John McMackin and all lieutenants bled me at every breath, and the day before election I paid to each of the twenty-for Assembly district leaders of the United Labor party enough to hire the workers in each polling place in his district at the rate of $5 s day. I was shelr dupe.

'I receive $6.00 votes in the city, and they coat me at the rate of $12.40 each.

'It was an experience for me. I have had my fill of politics. When I told a reporter that I was ruised I meant physically, not financially. The strain was fearful upon my nervous system.

'It is true that I placed a little morigane of $60,000 on one piece of my property—not my wife's, as has been stated—in order to raise a little ready money. I am in no flancial trube at all.

'It is a good thing they caught a man who could afford it. Had I followed the advice of McMackin and McGrata I should have lost a million.

'They organized Coogan clubs and all that. I footed the bills. I do not care to say anything further, except that I am still at the old stand. I will sot say anything further to say anything further, except that I am still at the old stand. I will not say anything further about the offer of $100,000 to me to withdraw."

Egan was about tweety-two years when he was married. That was three years ago, and after the ceremony was performed he went to live with his wife in East Forty fifth street, near the Turtle Bay brewery. In time a son was born to the couple, and he was christened Michael, after his father.

The family lived happily together until five months ago, when Mulligan, a young engineer employed in the brewery, began to wink at Mrs. Eagan as he passed the house after finishing his work. In about a fortinight Mulligan began to visit the house and it is said that the husband became aware of his visits. He spoke to his wife and she promised to stop Mulligan's calls.

Mrs. Eagan told an Evening World reporter this morning that she repeatedly commanded the young engineer to cease his calling.

is the most expensive and elaborate codin ever devised to hold the mortal remains of man.

In order to avert this common fate of humanity or at least to lessen its force, Mrs. Dr. filler conceived the idea some years ago of preparing burial caskets for, herself and her husband, which would not only rob the grave of its victory, but would not only rob the grave of its victory, but would express by their curved symbology the thought that life and death are one and the same in nature's grand economy.

Two vines cre ping up from the foot of the lid meet about a human skell carved from nature. Out of the skull's left eye-socket oreens a lizard, giving the death's head a most gassily appearance. A caterpillar ctawis along the rim around the smilen of death, but round about are dalaies and roses and a vutterfly, while in the bottom of the vine is a bird.

Above the plate and directly over the place where the heart of the decessed will be are branches of English and American oak intertwined. In place of a glass cover at the head fiere is a brass plate, cast and engraved, representing the river of death and the angel of death leading a fair maiden down through the re-da and grasses into Lethe's watera.
